Conference to focus on nutrition

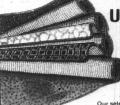

More than 120 delegates representing thousands of Illinois citizens will meet Tuesday at the State-Capitoi in Springfield to discuss current nutrition issues in Illinois. This one-day meeting has been planned by the Illinois State Council on Nutrition and participants have been in-vited to share concerns about many areas of nutrition. Harry "Babe" Woodyard (R-Chrisman), chairman of the Council on Nutrition, stated, "Even though the council was one of the many commissions abolished at the end of the spring legislative-session, the issues to be discussed are too important not to bring them to the attention of the proper authorities.

"One issue we encounter all the time in the council office is the problem of nutrition misinformation," said Virginia Hill, director of the council. "Nutrition is very it now, the council." Nutrition is very it now, the council is not considered the council. "Nutrition information than ever before. Everybody professes to be an authority whether they have a scientific background or not present. All invited ration, age group, university, or agency directly involved and intersted in the nutrition problems of the citizens of Illinois. This study will highlight the concern and direct these concerns to the proper authorities.

GC Steel could be a leader

As a general rule, we oppose government in-tervention into free trade, but when non-supported American products are attempting to compete with heavily government-subsidized foreign products be-ing "dumped" in this country, we agree it is time to act.

Such is the case with the beleaguered American steel industry. We find it difficult to believe that U.S. mills were allowed to fall into such deterioration over the past decade. Steel is essential to our national defense and to maintaining our should be industrialized! The U.S. government been helping been helping been the light seep the lindustry competitive.

been helping keep the Industry competitive.

Instead, over the last six years, five American steel companies have folded or gone bankrupt. More than 170 steel facilities have folded since 1984. Raw steelmaking capacity in this country has fallen from 175.5 million tons in 1994 to 148 million tons in 1992. Steel millis are operating at 33 percent of capacity, foreign steel has claimed 25 percent of the market and more than 300,000 steelworkers have lost their jobs.

We think the International Trade Commission (TTC) is starting to take the right approach in recommending that President Ronald Reagan im-pose stiffer quotas and tariffs on some steel for the next five years. At the same time, the ITC is deman-ding that U.S. steel companies modernize and im-prove productivity, so they can more easily com-

Time to 'retrench,' not build new pool

To the Editor:
I would like to add some comments to those in a recent letter on the swimming pool question. The Granite City area has been retrenching for many years — Union Starch gone, General Steel gone, A.O. Smith mostly gone and American Steel shut down.

Granite City Steel, now a division of an international combine, could go into decline in the future as foreign steel relentlessly pursues our markets.
This is a time to tighten our belts and pull in our ears on new spending programs. The proposal to repair the existing pool makes good sense. The park board should find ways to reduce its less essential programs to carry out the repairs without in-creasing our taxes.

What's in the Wildey for you?

It can enhance and enrich your life It can enlarge your opportunities to participate in the life of art. It can be a place for your children to learn, to grow... to explore a world of imagination and knowledge.

Programming for the Wildey will be rich and diverse. As a theatregoer, you will enjoy professional touring productions, top-quality local productions, professional children's theatre. As a music lover, you can attend concerts of all kinds — popular, jazz, classical. A star concert series, dance concerts, film series... unlimited entertainment possibilities.

A gallery in the Wildey will host exhibitions of work by artists and craftspeople. There will be space for recitals, meetings, fashion shows, parties, receptions: But that isn't all. The Wildey will also be a center for arts education, offering master classes in music and dance. For children, there will be two special programs — classes and performances in creative dramatics (K-12) and after-school visual arts (K-8).

And finally, you can take pride in a building - a part of Madison County's historic past - restored to serve you, your family and your community.

In short, the Wildey Arts Center will bring a dimension to your life that residents of few communities are privileged to enjoy.

- make it become a reality You can help make it happen What will it take? Money: Talent. Time. From individuals dedicated to the value of the future. From people with vision, committed to action.

It will take $50,000 — either in money or in-kind raised by August 15, 1984. So how can you help? Make a pledge to the extent of your ability. Donate your time, your ability, materials. Ask your organization to sponsor a fundraising event. Volunteer to host a fundraising party.

For any fundraising activity, we will provide a slide presentation, informational materials and people to answer questions. If you need fundraising ideas, we can help. Of course, all contributions are tax-deductible.

The Wildey Arts Center is a dream. But it is a dream that, with support from you and others, can become a living cultural presence in our community. Without such support, it will remain only a dream, to fade into the distance of time. The choice is yours. The time

Steel executive blasts the ITC's import recommendations

Lukens Inc., the nation's third largest plate steels producer, last week charged that the U.S. In-ternational Trade Commission's recommendations last week for im-port relief invite increases in plate steel imports and pose threats of greater injury to domestic plate pro-ducers.

"The remedy is no remedy at all and, if the recommndations stand, we plan to appeal to the U.S. Court of International Trade," said W.R. Wilson, Lukens' president and chief Wilson, Lukens' president and chief executive officer.

Wilson disclosed the contents of a letter sent to the members of the International Trade Commission asking that they revise their formal recommendations to the president and said, barring a change in the recommendations to provide some actual relief, "We will appeal on the basis that the commissioners failed to propose anything that would prevent or remedy the injury caused to the industry by plate steel imports.

When the commissioners find imports to be injurious to the domestic the industry by plate sieel imports.

"When the commissioners find imports to be injurious to the domestic industry, as they did in the case of plate steels, Section 201 of the Fair Trade Act requires that they suggest a remedy, not a proposal to make the situation worse. International Trade Commission proposed a quantitative restriction on plate that is a share of domestic apparent consumption. "but not less than 2.1 million tons per year." The quota proposed for the first three years is 21.2 percent of domestic apparent consumption and this increases to 23.3 percent of the first three years is 21.2 percent of domestic apparent consumption and this increases to 23.3 percent of the proposed for the first three years is 21.2 percent of domestic apparent on the proposed for the p motion. For the plate industry to gain any relief from imports, Lukens contends the ITC must revise the quantitative threshold downward. Wilson noted that 1984's apparent domestic consumption of plate steel is estimated at about 6.5 million tons, with limited growth likely over the most five years. Of domestic consumption," he said, "The 2.1 million floor allows no less than 28 percent market share by imports.

Said the forecast for million forms and the forecast for million forms in 1985, 7.3 million forms in 1986, 7.3 million forms in 1986, 7.3 million forms in 1986, 7.4 million forms in both 1988 and 1989. The commission's recommendation presupposes a 10 million for plate consumption year.

Wilson said. "That kind of a year isn't in any forecast we have seen for the 1980's. It is obvious to us that the commission's recommendations perpetuate the import penetration which gave rise to the commission's own finding of injury in the steel plate category and fail to fulfill their statutory, requiments under Section 201 of the Pair Trade Act of 1974."
